Thomas alias Lewis, of St. Louis, Still in Jail-He Proves to Be a Confi-dence Man of Small Proportions.

During the past few days the APPEAL has During the past few days the APPEAL has been publishing news as to the doings of one T. C. Lewis, who had been representing himself as a drummer or agent of the house of Frederick A. Thomas & Co., of St. Louis. Mr. Lewis attempted, by means of bogus telegrams from St. Louis, to have drafts cashed by Roper & Bro. and Roper & Flannagan, grocers of our city. Lewis was arrested and is now confined at the stationhouse to await news from St. Louis. Yesterday he admitted that his real name was Frederick A. Thomas, that he had been a member of the firm of Thomas & Co., at St. Louis, but the house much below cost, and under a fictitious ne, he evasively replied that he assumed name T. C. Lewis because it would look picious if a member of the firm acted as suspicious if a member of the firm acted as drummer. When informed that his house had long since closed, he stated that there was a man in charge who would receive the orders and ship the goods. The bogus letter of credit which he carried with him was dated November, and of course was written by himself. The chief of police has several letters belonging to Thomas, alias Lewis, in his possession. One of them is from his sister, a resident of East Boston, Massachusetts. It is a well-written, affectionate letter. sister, a resident of East Boston, Massachusetts. It is a well-written, affectionate letter, full of good advice, and expressing anxiety for his safety and health. It was addressed to "Mr. Fred. A. Thomas, Denver, Colorado," and had been re-mailed to St. Louis.

The other letter was written by a woman signing herself "Annie." It was full of bad spelling and worse English. It was affectionate in language, and referred to the "baby" and other matters of a domestic character, and it also contained matters of interest as to Mr. Thomas's proceedings in our city. The and it also contained matters of interest as to Mr. Thomas's proceedings in our city. The letter was written on letter-head paper bearing the heading: "Frederick A. Thomas & Co., Whisky and Tobacco Brokers and Wholesale Dealers in General Merchandise, 521 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo." After addressing as "My Own Dear Fred," the writer goes on to say: "When I go out I will get the checks and send. I hope, dear, you will come out all right, for oh, you do not know how I worry about you since you have been away this time.

on since you have been away this time. I have sent your message as you said and hope it will be all right, and also went to the bank, but as it happened did not get any checks, but will try again, dear, and send em to you. Write to --- again and I hink he will surely answer, for I don't want o do this kind of business myself. Fred, I annot send any more telegrams without noney, that you know."

The following telegram was received by hief-of-Police Davis last evening: St. Louis, Mo., December 8, 1880. W. C. Davis, Chief of Police: Bogus firm, and has left the city JAMES McDONOUGH, Chief of Police. Thomas, alias Lewis, while attempting to lay the confidence game in this city, has probably not gone far enough to get fastened in the meshes of the law. He will no doubt receive a moral lecture, and be ordered to leave the city. He will be tried and fined, however, for attempting to do business with-PERSONAL. Mr. C. T. Atwood, manager of the Collier Mr. C. T. Arwood, manager of the Collier
